FIRE BREAKS OUT IN ILL-FATED PARNASSUS MINE

ROGERS EXPLAINS REBELS' TRIUMPH AS THEY RETREAT

(Special To The News)
NEW YORK, March 23.—At Smith opened the Ringling circus last night. But Longworth and Charley Chris won't be far behind him. They are rehearsing for theirs.

Mr. Coolidge was still here in town today. Didn't seem to be able to strike a n-g-t-h-i-n-g. Mr. Hoover ought to put him on southern flood relief. Turn about is fair play.

And by the way, airplanes have done some great and dangerous work down there.

A Mexican revolution is organized in the morning. The retreat starts in the afternoon. And they capture every town they retreat through. That's why they like to start as near Mexico City as possible and then have more towns to retreat through.

(International News Service)
KINLOCH MINE, NEAR PARNASSUS, Pa., March 23.—With fire raging in the depths of this blast-wrecked mine today, efforts of rescue crews searching for the remains of at least two miners, have been halted while every effort is being made to quell the flames.

At 10 a. m. one fire was reported burning fiercely, while several other small blazes were reported hampering the work, according to attaches of the United States Bureau of Mines. Valley Camp Coal Company officials believe there are still four bodies in the workings. The bureau of mines believes there to be but two.

Forty-five bodies had been brought to the surface before the first fire was reported early today.

Fire departments from New Kensington and Parnassus responded to the alarm. According to crews emerging from the shaft, almost as quickly as one series of fire were extinguished, another would start. The blazes were on several levels. The possibility of explosions forced the fire fighters to work slowly and cautiously.

Search for the men still believed in the mine was abandoned when fire first flared up in three different rooms located about 2,000 feet below the surface. It was admitted by state inspector James D. Walker, that the men, if alive, are in great danger.

"There is the possibility that the fire may ignite a gas pocket, and then we would have Thursday's business over again," Walker said, adding, "I think the fire had been smoldering before the explosion Thursday."

Turn To New Danger

Forty-four bodies had been brought out when the fire was discovered. Only one more was cared for before the crews turned their attention to the new danger.

A recheck of the Kinloch mine records revealed that 315 men had been in the workings Thursday when (Continued On Page Five)

ALLENTOWN, Pa., March 23.—Charles T. Belles, self-styled "fairy doctor" known as a pow-wow or hex doctor throughout Lehigh county still glared at his jailers in the county jail today where he is being held in connection with the mysterious death of Verna Octavia Delp, 21-year old farm girl.

Belles refused to talk. He folded his arms refusing to touch the doors or wall of the jail last night as he was being placed in his cell. Pow-wow believers said by not touching the prison doors he prevented "his spirit" from being trapped in the jail.

Miss Delp whose body was found near the Catasqua Gun Club a week ago was known to have been a patient of the hex doctor. She died from a deadly poison. An investigation revealed she was soon to become a mother.

Belles' arrest was forecast by District Attorney Ethan Allen Gearhart on Thursday but it was not until last night that the arrest was made. He will be arraigned today before Alderman D. Bower. No formal charge has been preferred against him but Gearhart said he would be accused of participation in the murder of Miss Delp.

Dignity was away above par at the New Castle Field Club Friday night, March 23. Not in years has the Lawrence County Bar Association entertained such a group of distinguished guests as it did Friday night when the annual banquet of the association was held.

Almost every shade of legal experience was represented. Chief among the guests was Hon. Robert von Moschizsker, chief justice of the supreme court of Pennsylvania, and with him his colleagues, Justice William L. Schaffer, Justice John V. Kepner, Justice Emory A. Wallace and Justice Robert S. Frazer. In addition to the members of the supreme court were Judges Reider and McConnell of Beaver county, Judge J. A. McLaughry of Mercer county, Judges R. Lawrence Hildebrand and James A. Chambers. Other guests included the members of the Lawrence County Bar Association and law students who are registered from this county.

Short Addresses

The speaking program of the evening was short. One might suppose that supreme court justices would drink deeply from the wells of oratory upon such an occasion; that their addresses might be ponderous affairs running to four-syllable words and complicated phrases, or that they would utilize their time in an exposition of the law. Such was not the case.

The Lawrence lawyers found the justices very human, very affable and delightful guests. What they said was brief, the way they said it was interesting and the subject matter was not confined to the field of legal usage.

Justice Schaffer spoke first for the supreme court guests. He spoke proudly of the caliber of the Pennsylvania bar, reminding the men present that the United States supreme court had once said that of all the 48 states Pennsylvania lawyers presented their cases in the most efficient manner. He urged them to keep high the standard of the profession, to keep constantly before (Continued On Page Two)

MEXICO CITY, March 23.—The battle for Mazatlan, Sinaloa, was still raging early today. A revolutionary army under General Francisco Manzo was within the gates of the city, hotly pressing upon federal defending troops under General Jaime Carrillo, who were fighting desperately from fortifications atop a hill bordering the north shore of Mazatlan peninsula.

At 2:45 o'clock this morning fighting was still in progress, according to latest telegraphic advices in rebel headquarters here from Venadillo, Mazatlan suburb, where Manzo has established field headquarters. With heavy artillery fire thundering from two sides of the city and hand-to-hand street fighting occurring intermittently, casualties were believed numerous on both sides, though no definite estimate can be made before hostilities end.

The rebel cavalry advance over a single narrow and enclaved the city was harassed by a severe bombardment from the Mexican federal gunboat Progresso, lying in the harbor.

ROCKWELL, Tenn., March 23.—Twenty-eight Boy Scouts, encamped in a bungalow on White's creek, a small stream six miles south of here, were reported swept away by flood waters today and probably drowned.

The boys were last seen at 8:30 this morning when a rescue party of Rockwell men, including the fathers of two of the boys in the encampment, reached White Creek just in time to see the bungalow float away in a swirling torrent, with the boys and their scoutmaster on the roof, screaming for help.

The tiny stream this morning had become a roaring torrent, an eighth of a mile wide. Several of the boys were reported to have escaped from the camp house and climbed into trees. However, they could not be seen from the banks of the creek.

Children Keep Arriving
While County Is Paying
Cost Of Keeping
Family

CHILD HAS COST
COUNTY OVER $6000

Judges Hildebrand and Chambers were confronted with a perplexing problem when Samuel Albert and his wife, Bessie Albert, came up before them in court this morning on charge of selling liquor.

The Alberts have eight children and have been a public charge on the county for some time. Albert, it is claimed, has been unable to work. In addition to other help furnished the county has paid out $300 for an operation and hospital bill for Albert.

Pay $6000 For Child.

But this is not all. Judge Hildebrand stated that the county has paid out about $6000 for a child of the couple who has been undergoing treatment at the Shenango Valley hospital under the crippled children act. The child has been there for several years and is costing the county $3 per day. "I don't know what we are going to do with such people as you," said Judge Hildebrand. "Here the county has been keeping you and your children while you have still been bringing more children into the world."

Upon suggestion of District Attorney Bryan, the court asked Albert if he is a citizen. It was found that he is. Had he not been a citizen steps could have been taken to deport the couple and thus get rid of the charge upon the county.

Not Concerned.

While their case was being discussed Mr. and Mrs. Albert did not appear to be at least perturbed. A faint smile was seen on Mrs. Albert's face when the court was discussing the matter of family limitation. Mrs. Albert is a stout, healthy looking woman, while Albert is tall and slim, and does not appear to be very strong.

"About the only way of stopping this family increase would be to separate you," commented Judge Hildebrand. He then sentenced Albert to three months in the county jail. His wife was paroled, with the understanding that if she gets into any more trouble she will be sentenced. Meanwhile the expense of the county of keeping Albert in jail, paying the expenses of the child in the hospital. It is said that an effort is to be made by the county commissioners to cut down the expense of the child in the hospital if it is found that any way can be devised.

Mystery over the disappearance of Stanley Rzeznick, Pennsylvania railroad crossing watchman, who has been missing since early in January, was solved Friday evening, when his body was found floating in the muddy waters of the Shenango river.

Discovery of the body was due to the alertness and curiosity of two passengers on a Pittsburgh and Lake Erie train. Shortly after 4 o'clock Friday, C. H. Greenwald of Lima, Ohio, and E. F. Jones, of Cleveland, Ohio, traveling salesmen, boarded a train at New Castle, to go to their respective homes.

There is no romance in the stuff, it tastes like desiccated shoes, but what it does is something else, it banishes spring fever blues. A spoonful in the early morn brings color to the patient's cheeks, and brings an appetite at once that lasts for weeks and weeks. They mix the muck and call the kids, and everybody takes his straight, oh me, the time is now a hand, the weather stands at sixty eight.

Price Of World Fame May Be Total Deafness For Gertrude Ederle

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, March 23.—The price of fame for Gertrude Ederle, first woman to swim the English channel, may be total deafness. "Trudy's" hearing has been poor—very poor, in fact—ever since she swam the channel with the billowy waves swooping over her head and beating in on her ear drums.

She didn't notice her deafness at first, so keyed up was the young girl over the tumultuous reception she was accorded abroad and when she returned to her home in New York, but, gradually, she observed that she had to concentrate more and more to hear, especially over the telephone.

She thought for a time that her defective hearing would be restored. But no—it became worse.

In court yesterday on a speeding charge the magistrate had to shout into her ear to make her understand that he had suspended sentence in her case. He praised her accomplishment of swimming the channel.

"Trudy" is taking her ear trouble philosophically. Asked about it today, she said:

"The worst part of it is that I can't hear the nice things my boy friend says to me. But if I don't swim too much I will get over the trouble."

She was strong deaf for a time, she revealed. In fact, she even resorted to airplane rides as a possible cure.

While their case was being discussed Mr. and Mrs. Albert did not appear to be at least perturbed. A faint smile was seen on Mrs. Albert's face when the court was discussing the matter of family limitation. Mrs. Albert is a stout, healthy looking woman, while Albert is tall and slim, and does not appear to be very strong.

students have already returned to their homes here to spend the spring holidays with their parents.

These nice gentle rains we have been having the past few days are making the grass look pretty green. It won't be long now until we'll have to get the lawn mower oiled up and ready for operation.

One thing Lawrence County residents are going to be assured of, is plenty of game birds to hunt from now on. With the state proposition farm right in our midst, there should be plenty of them running loose in a short time.

The frogs are on the job once more. They could be heard at many places about the county last night, probably for the first time this spring season.

The open season for petting parties is also getting under way. Unlighted cars were noted parked along highways at strategic points last night, that gave every evidence of presence of the class mentioned.

One of our fellow citizens risks to explain that these red flags out along the Wilmington road were not placed there to keep the judges and lawyers from speeding. They were erected to warn of a bad place in the paving.

The southern lawn at the Cathedral is taking on a brilliant green hue. In a few days it will be at its best.

Bids are being asked for the work of widening and repaving the Wilmington road from the city line to Walnut. This improvement will probably be under way in a short time. This stretch is to be made a 30 foot boulevard.

At different places along Highland avenue there are depressions in the thoroughfare where the water collects following each storm. The pavement has sunk which causes the condition. There is also a rut near the gasoline station in Wilmington avenue. The city officials will probably look after these conditions.

Motorcycle Policeman Richards inaugurated a clever stunt during the Parr play at the Cathedral. He placed his motorcycle in such a position the red light divided traffic north and south from Lincoln into Highland avenue while he stood in the center of Highland avenue and worked the traffic in perfect manner.

It is claimed that people dump tin cans at night in spots where dumping is prohibited. It is said that sanitary policemen watch these places. It might not be a bad idea should the men be assigned to night duty and a "cleanup" of such persons would go far in eliminating sights that injure civic beauty.

It remained for Motorcycle Officer Charles Augustine of the city police force to officially open the 1929 swimming season on Friday. He with other officers were endeavoring to get the body found in the Shenango river yesterday out of the stream, when he was suddenly precipitated, clothing and all, into the cool waters of the stream. He had enough to do to get himself out of the stream after that.

them the idea that the practice of law in Pennsylvania was a worthy profession, and expressed his pleasure at being able to attend such a happy gathering.

Justice John W. Kephart spoke in a humorous vein for a few moments, and delivered Justice Schaefer's appreciation of the invitation to be present. Chief Justice Robert von Moschizker, who has been on the supreme bench for 19 years, was the third of the guests to speak.

He called attention to recent rulings of the bench which had for their effect the tightening of the qualifications for practice in this state. These rules were promulgated, he said, in order to keep the Pennsylvania bar on its high plane, to prevent unworthy men from entering the profession and to constantly improve the standards.

Powers for Local Bar
For the local bar Attorney John S. Powers was the speaker. His subject being "Oubter Dictum." To the lay mind the subject may have little meaning and might be explained in football English by calling it "Off-side." Not that Powers was anything but very much "on" in his address, for it was one of the wisest contributions the bar association has had in some years.

In it few escaped the points of his keen shafts of wit, but the wounds were bound up with the balm of laughter which followed. Mr. Powers was selected as the local speaker because of his unusual talent for after-dinner speaking. His resultant effort justified the selection.

Attorney Clyde V. Alley, president of the Lawrence County Bar Association, opened the speaking program in a welcoming address to the guests and then introduced Attorney Wylie McCaslin as the toastmaster of the evening. The committee in charge of the affair consisted of Attorney Robert L. Wallace as chairman, with Attorneys Clyde Gibson, Ray M. Jamison, W. Walter Graham and Arthur Brown associated with him. Sol Davis, "Sodo," the local edition of Harry Houdini, mystified the guests following the banquet with some of his magic art.

The service of the turkey dinner itself resolved itself into a dramatic presentation titled "The Fall of Turkey." Members of the staff: Attorney R. C. McKinley, Charles Matheus Jr., Robert M. White, M. J. Kraus and Roy W. Hosen as "disseminators," and Attorneys Alvin M. Shumaker, R. B. Luke, Joseph B. Leira, Ralph C. Cooper and John G. Lamore as "disseminators." Overseers of the poor disseminators and disseminators were Attorneys Thomas W. Dickson and George W. Muse. The fiscal agent was Attorney Clarence R. Patterson.

The banquet was the usual happy occasion and adds another success to a long list of gastronomic triumphs.

Officers Investigate
Going back to the Junction they notified railroad men who called Sheriff Reynolds. He in turn called Coroner J. P. Caldwell who started at once to investigate. A few minutes after his arrival a police car came with U. C. Harper, Charles Augustine and Budd Fleeger. They brought grappling hooks attached to a long rope.

At the place where the body was lodged there is an island. On both sides of the island the water was deep and swift, but at the point where the body was located there was a riffle. The body was about 30 feet from the north point of the island, toward the east side of the river.

Coroner Augustine desired long rubber boots and climbed down from the Cherry street bridge to the island, grappling hooks in hand. Harper and Fleeger went up the east bank to where a crowd had gathered opposite the body.

Body Starts Down Stream
When Augustine was less than one hundred feet from the body, the body broke loose from its moorings and started to move. The crowd shouted and Augustine rushed forward, swinging the grappling hooks, he shot them out toward the body, but they missed. Augustine rushed into the water until he was covered above the waist and made another attempt to catch the body without result.

By this time the body had reached the swift current on the east side of the island, and was being carried down stream at a pace that kept the crowd on a trot. It was realized that unless it was caught before the bridge was reached, it would be swept out into the swollen stream.

Fortunately, O. Clark, a Pittsburg and Lake Erie machinist, had come, armed with an iron bar about nine feet long with a hook on the end. After several vain attempts he finally managed to catch the body within a few feet of the Cherry street bridge. He dragged it to shallow water and with the assistance of Patsy Mungee, another railroad man, landed it on firm ground.

Coroner Caldwell searched the body for anything that would lead to identity. A South Bend gas watch was found. This was the kind of a watch owned by the missing crossing watchman. The man also wore high shoes which furnished another clue. He wore a sweater and it was known that Rzesznick's coat had been left in the vicinity which he occupied at the Grant street crossing.

Identification Made
The body was taken to the Ma-honingtown undertaking rooms, where it was later positively identified as that of the missing man. So far as could be found there were no marks of violence on the body, which was fairly well preserved. How he got into the Shenango river is still a mystery, water was at flood stage at the time and he may have slipped in and been carried away.

Had it not been for the alertness of the two men on the train, it is doubtful if it would have been recovered.

Rzesznick, who was about 40 years of age, is survived by his wife and six children. Funeral services from St. Mary's Polish church Monday morning at 9 o'clock.

Officers Thompson and Kennedy answered a call to an alley at Warner's row at one o'clock this morning, which was to the effect that a fight was in progress there. Officers Moore and Flinner also arrived on the scene about the same time.

The officers found Mildred Blue, colored, who makes her home with Joe Tucker, colored, at 321 South Beaver street, in a badly beaten condition, which she alleged was due to the treatment of Tucker.

She stated that on her return home, Tucker and two other colored men were engaged in a game of cards. A dispute arose over the cards and she was beaten by Tucker in the mixup. She was allowed to return home. The officers on searching the Warner row district found some three gallons of liquor under a back porch of the row, which is alleged Tucker placed there. Tucker has yet to be found.

"NATIONAL ORIGINS" TO TEST HOOVER STRENGTH

when Mr. Hoover was working daily to have the law removed. The senate, faced with half a dozen incipient filibusters, failed to act.

Up To Senate.
The situation is thus left up to the senate at the coming extra session. Senator David A. Reed (R) of Pennsylvania, ordinarily a staunch administration supporter, has led the fight in the past to keep the law on the books. Mr. Hoover conferred with him several times just before inauguration to no avail in an effort to persuade him to abandon his threat to filibuster if the matter were brought up.

Leaders, therefore, are waiting to see how far the president will go when congress assembles next month. To get the question of repeat up for a vote, he would have to overcome the threat of filibuster. To do this, he would have to wield a very large stick on Reed and several others.

Uncle Tom's Cabin

At Penn Theatre

Will Be The Attraction At The Penn Theatre Next Week

The first and real, true adequate presentation of Harriet Beecher Stowe's, immortal novel, Uncle Tom's Cabin will be presented at the Penn theatre all next week.

Uncle Tom's Cabin is considered by critics to be the most sensational, amazing and thrilling entertainment ever offered the public and was produced at a cost of nearly $25,000 a day for two years.

You will see the many thrilling dramatic moments such as: The life of the old south, the whistle of the steamboat around the bend, banjos in the moonlight, the buying of the bloodhounds and the greatest thrill scene ever produced, "Eliza crossing the ice." You'll hear and enjoy the Dixie Jubilee singers, who will carry you back to quaint forgotten life.

Behind this $20,000,000 production is the famous New York Augmented Symphonic orchestra. This will be your first and only chance to see and hear this world famous orchestra.

The comedy is a Max Sennett, all talking and dialogue, titled "The Bride's Relations," and is the funniest and most amusing comedy seen for many a day.

The Penn screen presentation consists of the famous jazz orchestra, "The Capitolians," you will hear them as well as see them.

Tonight is your last chance to see Evelyn Brent, Olive Brook, Doris Kenyon and William Powell in "Interference" and Eddie Cantor, the world's famous comedian in "That Party in Person."

Today

In Search of a Job.

Famous Last Words.

The Mighty Amazon.

What They Will Do.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE

(Copyright, 1929, King Features

Synd., Inc.)

Former President Coolidge is in

New York city. Reporters say he is considering "a job," preferably

some executive position.

Every executive position worth while means entering the employ of a corporation.

It should not be necessary for a man who has been president of the United States to look for any job or go to work for any corporation.

Election to the presidency should entitle a man at the end of his term to a pension, sufficient to make any other job unnecessary for the rest of the man's life. A pension certainly less than $50,000, and preferably the full amount of the president's pay.

The people owe this not only to the presidency, but to their own self-respect.

Allons, "let us go," was the last word uttered by Marshal Foch. It is the first word of the French nation's hymn that he heard so often, the hymn to which the revolutionary soldiers marched from the south of France into Paris. "Allons

enfants de la patrie," etc.

The last words of great men,

piously collected, have little value.

The great man probably did not know what they were saying. "Mich-

Licht, "more light," were the last words of Goethe.

Frederick the Great's last words are supposed to be "I am dying." "Head of the army." He often spoke

French in preference to German.

Pitt, whose genius kept Napoleon out of England, said as he died, "My country, how I leave thee." He was worried about the future.

What a man does while he lives is more important than what he says

when he dies.

German scientists discover that the great Amazon, so wide at the mouth that boats on it go out of sight of land, connects with the River La

Plata, forming the greatest river chain on earth.

That will interest thousands, who are reading King's "Westward Ho!"

and lived, in imagination, on the Amazon and the Orinoco.

Elihu Root, great lawyer, says the world court is now an almost continuous tribunal. The statement is interesting, and you may add to it the things that continuous world court would do to the United States

if Uncle Sam ever submitted himself to its rulings would be continuous and quite expensive.

However, the "right people" which means big people, including international financiers, want the United States in the world court in order that investments made recklessly abroad may be protected by court decision and backed by United States credit.

For that good reason the United States WHY GET INTO

THE WORLD COURT in spite of Senator Borah and others who think

George Washington was right, George

Washington did not know high finance.

German health resorts refuse to admit poor Trotsky, once ruler of the Russian army, now exiled of the Russian government. Trotsky, ill, would like to take the German "waters."

Owners of various "spas" say they don't want Trotsky, because he would drive away their richest customers—

especially Americans.

What Trotsky

Means Capitalism now would be emphatic.

A Russian murderer, "head of the Volga pirates," recalling the ancient

Tartars, with his small black eyes and active body, on trial for 200 crimes, adds proverbially to his boasting.

His daughter "was a nuisance," so he killed her.

"You cannot make a good plank

from rotten wood."

He killed his uncle. "Buried men cannot burn without so I shot him

with his wife and lodger."

After he killed his daughter, his wife called him a murderer, "so I threw her into the Volga, because flowing streams wash away sorrow."

His second wife "knew too much."

I killed her because in the grave all knowledge ends.

All knowledge will soon end for this

Volga pirate, Kuznetsov, soon to face a firing squad.

President Hoover will be asked by Police Commissioner Whalen, of New York, only a short time in office, but with much knowledge of criminals for "legislation to prevent criminals purchasing pistols." Commissioner

Whalen says:

"Criminals are cowards, every one of them, relying on guns to attack

women, children and defenseless men.

Without guns they would be in constant fear."

That's true, but how can you prevent their having weapons. The Constitution of the United States, which can not be lightly changed, forbids interference with the right of citizens to bear arms.

This can be interpreted to mean that the weapon must be visible, not hidden. Even so, a trap could be a shotgun or repeating rifle, out the barrel short, and hide it under his coat.

Legislation thus far has kept respectable men from having pistols for their own protection. It has not interfered with crime or the purchase of weapons by criminals.

As a final effort to increase the speed of cars they might shape the wheels like a bat rim.

Other Presidents had big jobs to do, but none had to live up to a reputation like Hoover's.

State Legislators Face Final Month Of Session

Record Set By State Solons In Side Stepping Trouble-some Problems

Gasoline Tax Increase Is Only Major Measure Awaiting Action

By WILLIAM BROWN

HARRISBURG, March 23.—As the present session of the legislature approached its final month, indications today were that a new record will be established for ability to side step troublesome problems of all kinds. So far the majority of problems about which debates center have been solved. There now remains only the gasoline tax. If the administration insists on a four cent rate then the legislature will make it four cents. If the administration is willing to compromise then the legislature will compromise.

Problems Solved
The other troublesome problems have been solved. Introduction of 600 bills for new roads in the present session will not benefit anyone but the state printer who gets paid on a lump sum basis. The plan to make mandatory greater expenditure on strictly rural roads will be adopted and the troublesome Omnibus bill will not be necessary.

Despite the rumblings on Philadelphia legislation that too apparently has joined the problems which will be allowed to expire gracefully in committee or pass under previous agreement. In either case the net result is not expected to affect existing conditions. Diverging opinions on the Leslie bill for creation of Metropolitan Pittsburgh must yet be ironed out. That problem will be considered at a hearing Tuesday and speedy action thereafter is expected.

Few Bills Remain
Otherwise little remains to be done on what is considered "general" legislation. Appropriations must be passed—that is a function of the legislature. The measures, however, will be so timed that the governor will have a full 30-day period to study them after recess of the assembly so that they may be kept within the bounds of forecast revenue.

The anthracite tax repeal also will be a compromise. There has been practically no demand for repeal of the tax except from the anthracite counties. A measure to reduce and gradually eliminate the tax now seems certain.

None of the committees which so far have smothered the bills about which controversy may center is expected to take any other stand during the final week.

Blue Law Bills Tabled
Bills of every sort to liberalize the ancient blue laws were introduced and sent to the House committee on law and order. The day the committee met so did the representatives of a number of church organizations. All the bills are expected to stay in committee.

The entire series of hearing arts bills, including those which would make more difficult operation of the so-called "witch doctors," will continue to remain in the Senate health and sanitation committee files. The attention that centered on the voting machine bill during the entire session so far served to beloud interest in 15 other measures backed by election reform organizations. As a result the voting machine bill will pass both houses with little or no opposition. Agreement was reached on it after insistence from Republican leaders that such action be taken.

Only five of the measures sponsored by the election commission have struggled from committee. One of them provides a $50,000 appropriation to continue the commission for the next biennium.

Along with other records which the present session will make is a new total for repealing obsolete acts. More than 200 of them are certain to be approved.

Parr Repeated Friday Evening

First Night's Success Of Home Talent Production Is Repeated

Following one triumph up with an even greater one, the cast of "Parr," the Carroll B. Kearns golf-musical-comedy pleased some 2,000 people Friday evening in the Cathedral. It was the closing night of the show and the piece things said on Thursday evening by the crowd in attendance were reiterated Friday evening.

The production ranks with the best in local talent ever presented here and was a complete success. From the artistic angle it left little to be desired. From the financial angle it will provide the service division of the New Castle Consistory with funds for operating purposes for the coming year.

Following the performance last night there was considerable discussion concerning the organizing into a permanent group, the players who took part in "Parr." It was suggested that it would be a good thing to keep this band of performers together and this discussion may lead to some tangible results later.

FIRE NOW RAGING IN KINLOCH MINE; REMOVE 45 BODIES

The explosion occurred, according to O. F. Taylor, superintendent of the mine. The report of those escaping through abandoned openings totaled 266 on today's check. With the 45 bodies accounted for, the company believes four to still be in the mine. Investigations are under way. State mine inspector from the second district at Dravosburg, and Alex McCann, No. 1, district at Monaca-bela. The United States Bureau of Mines also announced the beginning of its probe, but refused to make a statement. There also will be an investigation by the Westmoreland county coroner's office.

In offering the entire personnel of the Valley Coal Company to aid in the investigations. Superintendent Taylor stated that the cause of the blast was "beyond human control." Taylor claims the cause to have been the breaking of a link in the endless steel carrier chain, allowing the carrier to drop back into the mine, creating a spark from the banging of steel on steel to which set the dust off.

Believe Tell 46.
KINLOCH MINE, near Parnassus, Pa., March 23.—The death toll of the Kinloch mine disaster this afternoon was believed definitely established at 46 dead, 226 saved and 16 injured. Rescue crews which successfully battled four fires which flared up early today in the mine, ceased work with the announcement by officials of Valley Camp Coal company that all the men were believed accounted for.

Rescuers had been searching for miners John Moch and Steve Ronids, but they were reported safe in their homes and not even in the mine when the explosion shook the valley Thursday morning. One body remained in the mine today, trapped in wreckage and water at the floor of the main slope. It was believed to be that of Arnold Breeding.

Of the 45 bodies recovered from the mine the only one heretofore unidentified was recognized today as that of Peter Karatovick. Rescuers worked feverishly to control the four fires which flared up in different rooms of the mine this morning. Three were quickly extinguished and the fourth, a smoldering blaze was reported well under control at noon.

With the casualty list awaiting the official stamp, Mine Superintendent O. F. Taylor announced that workmen would begin to pump out the water and remove the wreckage to reach the body. Taylor estimated this as an all-day job.

Country Farm Auction Still Holds Attraction

"Give me a bid, gentlemen, anything to start this pedigree Holstein, neither a bargain if ever there was one."

The language is that of the auctioneer, for over the country side at the present time, the chirp of the robin and the chick of the chickadee is drowned by the stentorian tones of the farm auctioneer.

Like spring house cleaning, spring fever and spring training, the spring auctioneering is on and every farmer who has a flock of fowls, cattle, sheep and hand postage stamps on hand, is getting rid of them via the auction route.

If you see a herd of automobiles parked in a farm yard or on the road side, don't look for any crepe on the door. It isn't a funeral. It's an auction.

Friday afternoon Senator George T. Weingartner who is a farmer when he isn't a banker, lawyer, politician or what have you, held an auction of cattle and farm implements, with William R. Gardner presiding over the auction block.

Kind faced cows that have been working for years and are one of the dumbest creatures that ever shooed a fly. That's why they are called cows.

Sentence Court For Prisoners Is Held Today

Conflicting Reports Given Court-On Augst Yohn, Alleged Bootlegger

GIVEN 15 MONTHS TO THE WORKHOUSE

Theodore Melvin Draws Not Less Than Year Nor More Than 2 To Penitentiary

Sentence court for persons convicted during the term of criminal court just closed was held by Judges R. L. Hildebrand and J. A. Chambers this morning.

August Yohn, who was arrested for transporting liquor, was fined $200 and given 15 months to the Allegheny county workhouse. A peculiar feature with reference to this case was a letter from Anthony Julius, Safety Service Director of Campbell, Ohio, written to the judges in which he stated that he had known Yohn, a resident of Campbell, Ohio, for 22 years, and that he was a good, law abiding citizen, and that he had never known him to be in trouble of any kind. Julius stated that Yohn has a wife and three children, and lives with his mother. In view of his excellent record Julius asked that Yohn be shown leniency.

This letter was in contrast to a letter in the hands of District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, Chief of Police Cunningham of Campbell, Ohio, in which he stated that Yohn had been arrested in that town several times.

Other sentences passed were as follows: Samuel Cummings, possessing liquor, fined, $100 and costs and county jail 30 days.

Arthur Johnston, driving auto while intoxicated, $200 fine and costs and three months to county jail.

Andy DiVanti, possessing liquor, $100 and costs and five months to county jail to date from Nov. 12, 1928, when he was imprisoned.

Charles Hook, assault and battery on his wife, $25 fine and costs and three months to county jail to date from December 13, 1928.

Richard Cline, possessing liquor, $100 fine and costs and county jail three months.

Jack Stewart, possessing liquor, $100 fine and costs and two months to county jail to date from March 8.

Andy Slummer, transporting liquor, $100 fine and costs and three months to county jail to date from February 15.

Nelson Drake, driving while intoxicated, $200 fine and costs and three months to county jail, to be released in 30 days upon payment.

Theodore Melvin, robbery, $25 and costs and not less than one nor more than two years to Western penitentiary.

John Saad, possessing liquor, $100 fine and costs and county jail for 30 days.

Victoria Yohem, possessing liquor, $100 and costs and county jail for two months to date from February 2.

The TOWN DOCTOR (The Doctor of Towns) Says:

SELLING A TOWN IS LIKE SELLING ANYTHING ELSE. If you are a thinking resident of the place where you live, you desire that the world get sold on your community.

Before you can get sold on it yourself, and before you can sell it to others to anywhere near maximum degree, there is a certain amount of study and analysis necessary. That is, it is necessary if known ethics of good business are adhered to. Sad but true, however, this is altogether too seldom done in this civic.

The first question to be answered is, "Is there a market—a demand for it?" The demand for good, live, wide-awake communities greatly exceeds the supply. Every day people are asking, "Where is there a good town in which to locate?" for any one of a thousand reasons. Twenty percent of your motor traffic is in the market for, or can be sold a new location. Men at the heads of large industrial concerns, people in all walks of life, in fact, everyone is looking for good towns—good communities.

New people realize the extent to which industry and business go to find good towns. There are in Chicago alone dozens of corporations, concerns and firms who have special departments to do nothing else but find out if a community is suitable for the purpose they have in mind. With some it is for location of a branch factory, employing hundreds; others for a distributing point, requiring twelve to fifty; others for place of residence for the representative and family who handles the company business in that area, and there are others who, looking into the future, just want to know.

And this is your opportunity IF your community is in position to take advantage of it.

The second question: "Is your community marketable—suitable for sale, as it is?" To make it marketable, the bugs must be eliminated—the monkey wrenches fished out of the machinery, so that when sold, it will stay sold.

What business man is there that doesn't know what happens to any concern that places a product or service in the hands of the American public that, when sold, doesn't stay sold? Every thinking man knows that it spells disaster, but in the face of that very knowledge, they expect their town to "go over" with the same American public, without eliminating those things that are known to provoke dissatisfaction, create loss of interest, and unsell the customer.

The first bug in the machinery of most communities is that of "unprompted familiarity." You walk down the street and look at hundreds of things that repel other people, but you do not see them. You go to your store or office and there are things that others abhor, but you fail to recognize them because you are so familiar with them. At the same time, above you, below, and on every side of you, there are "acres of diamonds that have never been mined." It is a matter of being "so close to the picture that you can't see the frame."

PETER'S ADVENTURES IN ANIMAL LAND

DEAR OLD DAD TURNS INTO AN ICE BIRD

Drake, at this point in his story, drooped his head and sniffed sadly. "I shall never forget, as long as I live how I came upon my poor father one winter's day. Mother was getting us children ready for the long fly south and we were to start that very afternoon, but we couldn't fly far with empty stomachs so father went out to find us some food. "Cold weather had driven the snails and water insects deep into the mud for warmth, and father had to dig deep to get them. He had a hard time of it and on his last trip he stayed in the water too long—dear old dad—he was determined not to come back to us with empty beak. If only he had! "Jack Frost caught sight of him digging in the shallows and told Ice and Ice crept upon father, and before he knew it had spread its trap. When at last father had dug out the snail and tried to wade back with it to shore he found he couldn't move his feet. "Father struggled and struggled, and quaked for help and all the neighbors went with us to try to get him out. It was no use! He was sealed tight in a cake of ice and we had to stand there and watch him turn into an ice bird without doing a thing to aid him. "How dreadful!" exclaimed the boy. Drake nodded his head. "Terrible," agreed he. "None of us ever got over it. And every one of us made up our minds that if we could possibly help it we would never let Ice catch us unawares. Neither do we trust Jack Frost—we know that as soon as he appears, trouble is soon to follow. "If Ice doesn't hurry up close upon his heels Snow does, and that is just as bad. Snow delights in blinding us. So we can't find our way and then leaves us to the mercies of whatever prowler may be about." Drake stopped talking and gazed at work.

"So when you woke up that night not long ago and found Jack Frost was having a party," he reminded the bird, "what did you do?" "Took to our wings, I said," said Drake, sharply. "Dear me, I do wish my folks would hurry. They stopped off to see some relatives while I came on to visit an old Uncle and they were to meet me here this afternoon. I do hope nothing has happened to them." Next: "Storm Signals."

THOUGHTFUL HUEBY Young Husband—Did you make those biscuits, my dear? His Wife—Yes, darling. Her Husband—Well, I'd rather you would not make any more, sweet-as-bad. Snow delights in blinding us. So we can't find our way and then leaves us to the mercies of whatever prowler may be about." Drake stopped talking and gazed at work.

Federal Board Delays Action Against Market

Federal Reserve Board Accomplishes But Little At Friday's Conference

WEEK'S SESSIONS
ARE AT AN END

Hope For Change In Speculative Situation To Obviate Rediscount Increase

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Hoping against hope for some change in the speculative situation that would obviate the necessity of another boost in the rediscount rates the Federal Reserve board completed a week's hectic conferences today without taking any new action against the market.

The board went into conference again this morning and considered the latest figures from the various districts, but it was understood that nothing would be done at least until next week. Action then depends upon the situation. If loans to brokers and dealers continue to mount, undoubtedly there will be a jump in the rates, probably by Chicago.

May Increase Rate.
The reserve ratio of the Chicago bank is materially lower than New York and it may be necessary to increase the rate in order to protect the position of that institution.

Yesterday's "mystery meeting" of the board, given a dramatic touch, so far as finances are dramatic, when Secretary Mellon hastened to the session following the meeting of President Hoover's cabinet, ended without a hint as to what transpired. Rediscount rate changes and the mounting volume of member bank credits going into the market obviously were the sole topics of the reserve system managers.

Mellon Active.
Secretary Mellon is said to have submitted to the board the views of the president. Because of Mr. Hoover's particular interest in business prosperity it was the general impression that he would counsel against any increase in rediscount rates until action of that character became absolutely necessary.

The board is in a difficult position. With rates of all but the San Francisco, Minneapolis and Kansas City banks at five per cent, the highest in normal times since the system was established, any further increase undoubtedly will react against business and industry.

Indirect Control.
While the rediscount rates at the reserve banks do not directly influence commercial rates, the member banks and other financial institutions naturally pass along to their customers the additional cost of money and in the end business and then the public pays the bill.

In other words if the reserve system makes it expensive for the speculator to obtain his money they likewise boost its cost to commerce in which the profits, as a rule, are far less than in speculation. Furthermore there is no assurance that a rate increase of even one per cent would not more than temporarily reduce the bank credit in the hands of speculators.

The one certain factor before the board today was that the country has gone speculation mad and until the market "runs its course" there isn't much the government can do about it.

To Land Here In New Plane

New Type Of Plane To Be Seen At Airport On Monday

BUSINESS MEN

HERE INTERESTED

O. H. Snyder, project engineer of the United States Army air corps at Dayton, will arrive in New Castle sometime Sunday in a new type 2-passenger cabin monoplane for the one and only purpose of exhibiting it to New Castle business men and others, according to an announcement made today by W. J. Offutt, chairman of the industrial committee of the New Castle Chamber of commerce.

Snyder, an expert airman, will locate at the Bradford airport on the Youngstown road. He will remain at the landing field until late Monday afternoon.

According to Mr. Offutt there will be no exhibitions given on Sunday. These have been scheduled for Monday, and Monday afternoon in particular.

It is the hope of the Chamber of Commerce that a good representation of business men of the city will be in attendance to witness the demonstration that Snyder will give on Monday afternoon. "It is believed that if enough manifest their interest in the visiting plane something further toward the betterment of New Castle will develop."

Snyder, besides handling his army work, has been in charge of inspection of all army plane accidents for the past few years. It has been his duty to determine the weakness that caused the crash and to develop something that would strengthen that weakness. Snyder is soon to leave his present position to devote his time to the manufacture of airplanes.

It might be added to Snyder's record that he is affiliated with De Loyd Thompson, one of the earlier exhibition fliers. Thompson was the one

Stove Pipe Used For Connection In Sewer Line

One of the strangest arrangements yet seen in the matter of creating a temporary arrangement in a sewer line that has been broken, is to be seen at the Allen apartment located right at the north creek bank of the new North street bridge abutment.

When the excavating was in progress, the sanitary sewer connection from the apartment was broken. For a time the sewage was allowed to run into the river. With the starting of the abutment, it became necessary to put a stop to this.

The broken parts of the sewer were joined by means of two pieces of stovepipe and an L. The stovepipe seems to be acting very satisfactorily.

While the rediscount rates at the reserve banks do not directly influence commercial rates, the member banks and other financial institutions naturally pass along to their customers the additional cost of money and in the end business and then the public pays the bill.

In other words if the reserve system makes it expensive for the speculator to obtain his money they likewise boost its cost to commerce in which the profits, as a rule, are far less than in speculation. Furthermore there is no assurance that a rate increase of even one per cent would not more than temporarily reduce the bank credit in the hands of speculators.

The one certain factor before the board today was that the country has gone speculation mad and until the market "runs its course" there isn't much the government can do about it.

Desires to Cook

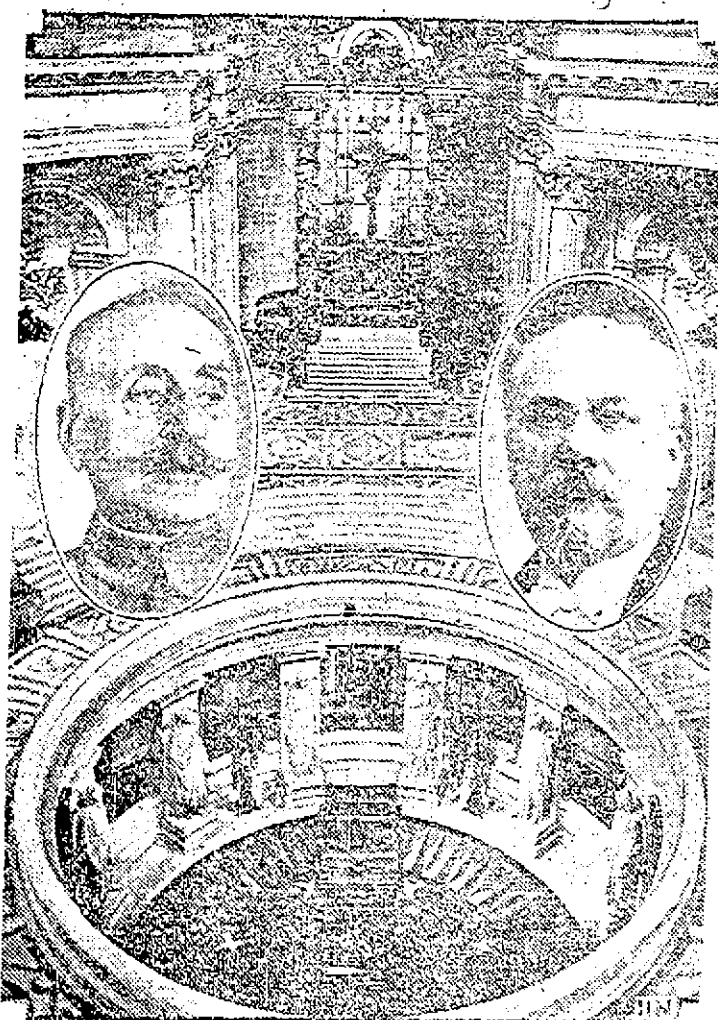

Mrs. Arthur M. Hyde, wife of the new secretary of agriculture, "loves" to cook, but can't, she confesses—because she has to preside at social functions. The problem began when her husband became governor of Missouri.

SCENES AS FLOOD WATERS ABATED IN ALABAMA TOWN

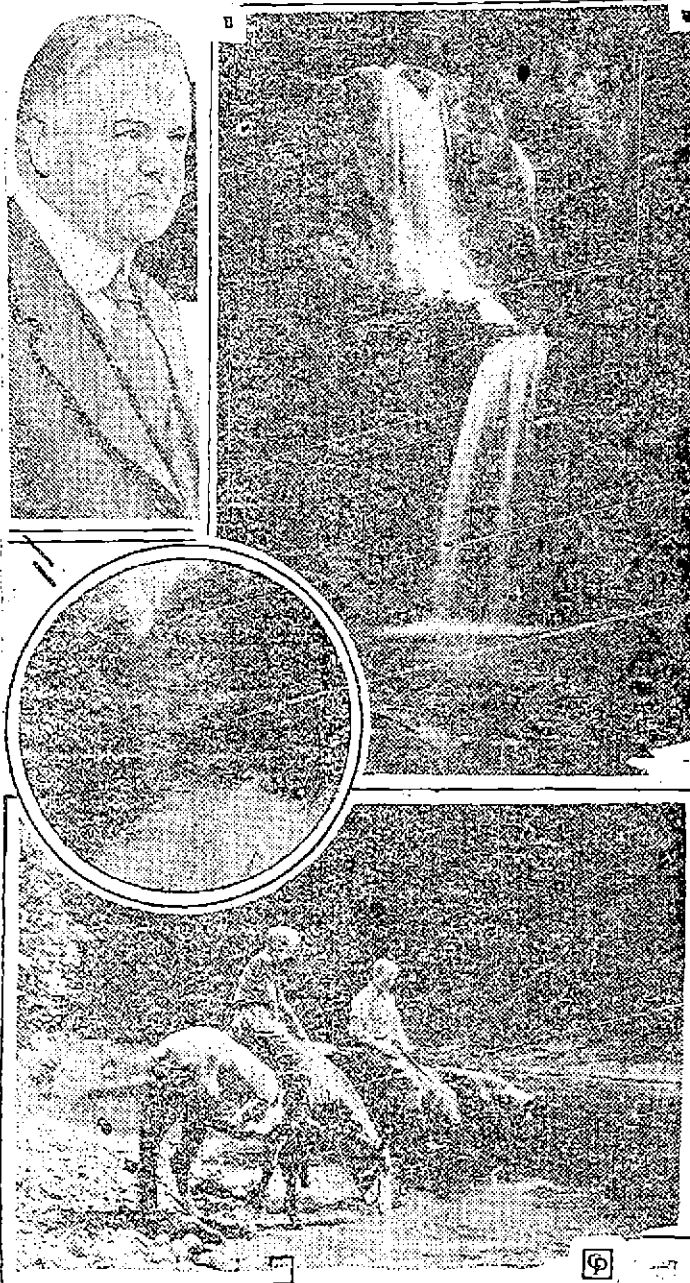

In order to prevent spread of typhoid and malaria, vaccinating of victims of the Alabama floods was begun as soon as doctors were able to reach the marooned people. Right, above, citizens of Elba, which was inundated by the overflowing of two rivers, are being vaccinated. Left, Mrs. J. W. Ellis, also of Elba, with three of her five children. The other two became separated from her during the flood.

Mourning France Honors Foch

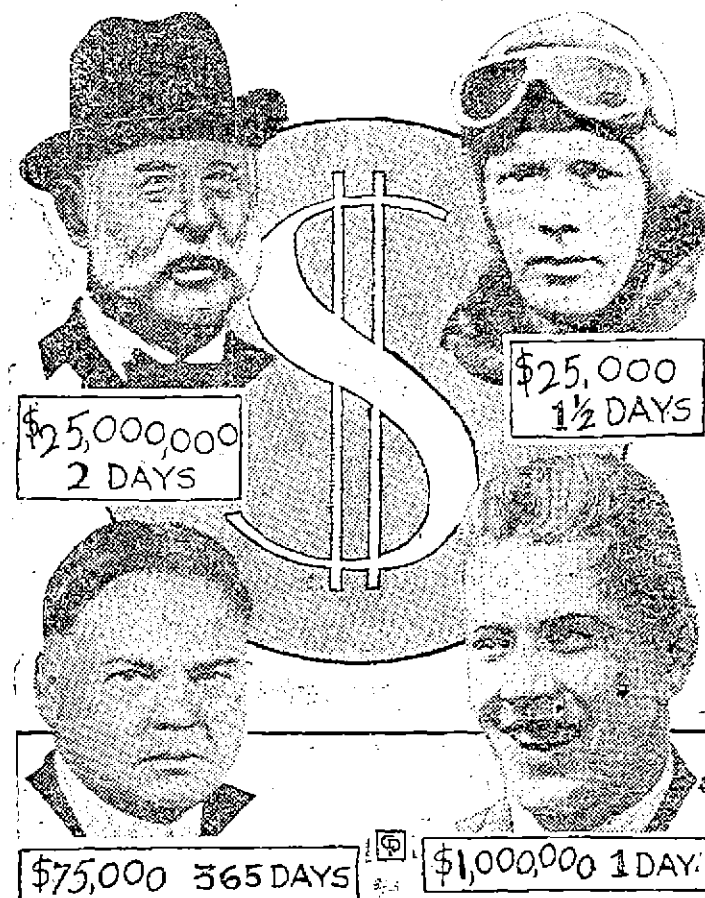

The funeral services for Marshal Ferdinand Foch, left, will probably be held Tuesday in Notre Dame Cathedral where Premier Poincare, right, will be the only speaker. The body of the great Marshal will lie in state near the Tomb of Napoleon, above, under the great dome of the Invalides Palace, where thousands of visitors will pay homage to the great war leader.

WHERE HOOVER IS GOING FISHING

President Hoover plans to go fishing in the streams of Shenandoah National park and elsewhere in the Shenandoah valley of Virginia. Above are scenes in this region, with inset of the president.

WORLD'S FASTEST MONEY MAKER

George F. Baker, Sr., New York banker, upper left, has made $25,000,000 in two days, and $42,000,000 in a week through increase in value of his bank stocks. This puts to shame remarkable money-making powers of far more familiar public figures, such as Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, upper right; President Hoover, lower left, and Gene Tunney, former heavyweight champion, lower right. Lindy won a $25,000 prize by flying the Atlantic in approximately a day and a half. Hoover has to labor as president for a full year to receive $75,000, and Gene Tunney, former fastest money-maker in the world, received but $1,000,000 in the most profitable day of his life—the day he fought Jack Dempsey in Chicago.

French Ambassador? Spurs "Whoopie"

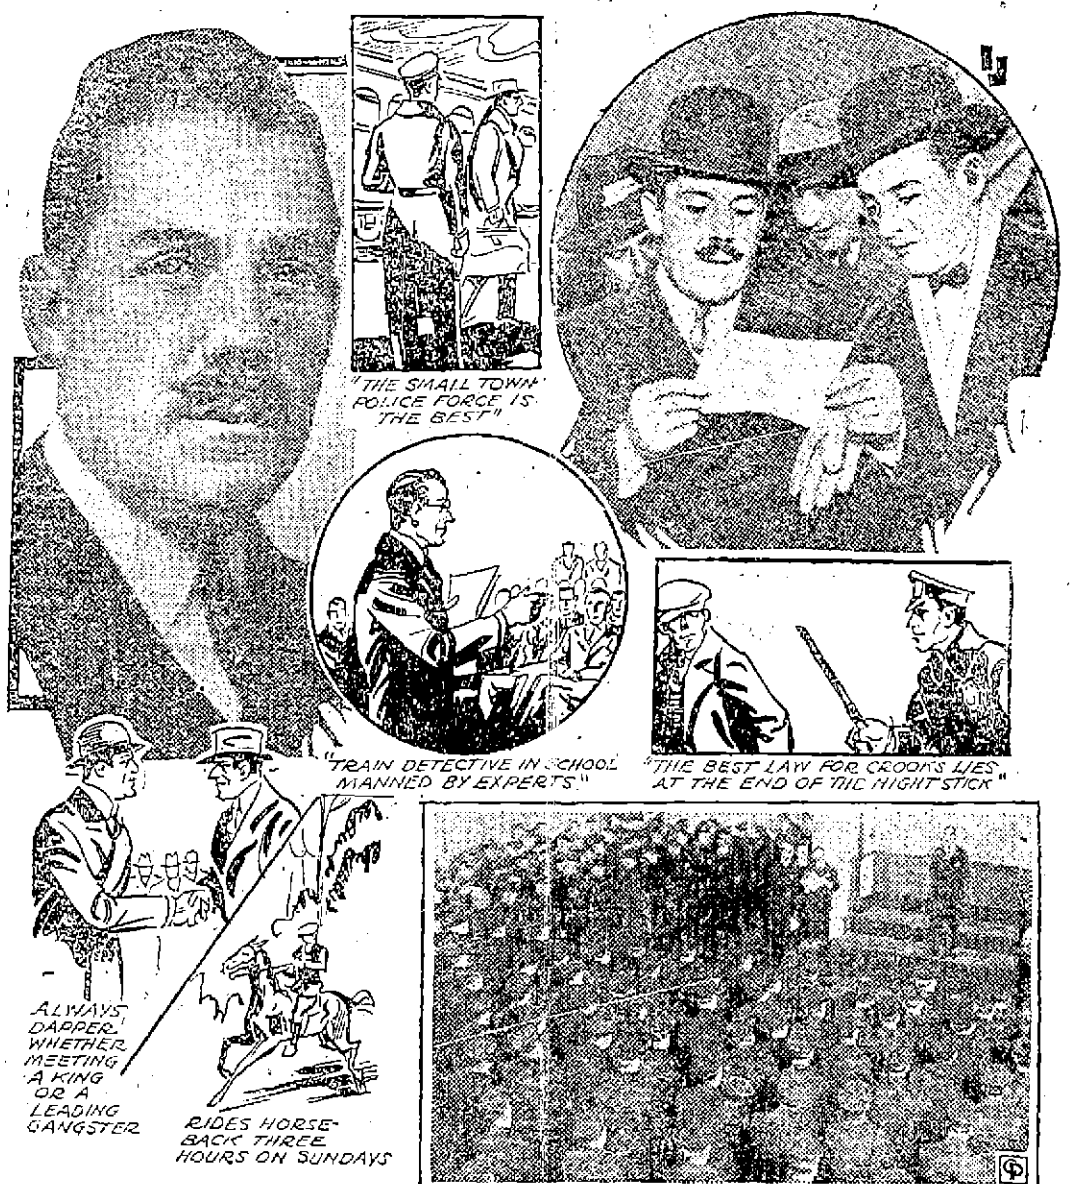

An unauthenticated report says that Alvin T. Fuller, former Governor of Massachusetts, has been tentatively selected by President Hoover to succeed Herrick as Ambassador to France. Instead of a "whoopie" vacation, Nina Byron, late of a New York musical comedy, is taking a serious trip to foreign countries. This picture was taken on her arrival in Los Angeles from Panama.

STILLMANS AGAIN IN COURT

After eight years the troubles of the James A. Stillmans. Fred K. Beauvais, Indian guide, and Flo Leeds, again echo in the courts of New York. Beauvais, accused in a divorce suit by Stillman of being the father of little Guy Stillman, has brought a libel suit for $500,000 against Stillman, his former employer. He has asked permission of the court to name Flo Leeds, who figured in the divorce trial, as co-defendant, declaring she conspired to "frame" him and Mrs. Stillman so that Stillman could procure a divorce. Beauvais and Mrs. Leeds are above and the Stillmans below.

GOETHAM POLICE HEAD SAYS SMALL TOWN FORCE BEST

The small town police department is the best, says Grover Whalen, commissioner of the largest police organization in the country—New York's. Where everybody knows everybody, that place is easiest to police, he says. Dapper and athletic looking, Whalen would train detectives in schools manned by experts and believes "the best law for crooks lies at the end of a nightstick."

Hoover's Game Tract

Mr. Laurence Jacques, above, stands at the entrance to the 1,800-acre estate at Catoctin Furnace, Md., which he sold to President Hoover for a game and fishing retreat. This preserve boasts of fish and game aplenty and should keep the executive very busy on his visits here.

Who'll Rule Tammany?

A MID secrecy, a great factional battle seems to be on for the control of Tammany, powerful New York City Democratic organization, complicated by an approaching mayoralty campaign. Whether the successor to the retiring leader, George W. Olvany, will favor Alfred E. Smith or Mayor James Walker, who seem to be on opposing sides, may determine the future fate of either one of these men.

Olvany quit suddenly, it is believed, because of disagreement with Smith and Smith's wealthy contractor friend, Wm. F. Kenney. One story has it that Smith's supporters desire U. S. Senator Robert F. Wagner to resign and oppose Walker for the mayoralty nomination. Then, the story goes, Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt would appoint Smith senator. The anti-Smith group of Tammany opposed Roosevelt's nomination.

The fight first was rumored when Smith's friends asserted Tammany organization men had not "taken their coats off" to get votes for Smith in the presidential election.

NEW CASTLE

OUR CASTLE

by
The Women's Club - Organized in 1887.

"GOD COULDN'T BE EVERYWHERE, SO HE MADE MOTHERS."

In this proverb, even the pagan recognizes in the mother, a God appointed guardian of the race.

Our own city knows no greater need than just such guardianship of mothering for our homes, for our schools, for our excursions and for our public housekeeping. To aid such work is the aim of this column.

A SPECIAL SCHOOL FOR HANDICAPPED CHILDREN

How can the state hope to attain its commendable aim of equal educational opportunity to all of its children when Nature has so unequally endowed them—every grade and type of possibility being wrapped up in the lives of the 11,000 children of our public schools and the state department of education itself gives out the information that 2 per cent of all our children are mentally incapable of mastering even the rudiments of the required public school course?

SEPARATE SCHOOL ADVISED FOR HANDICAPPED CHILDREN

But for the unfortunate 2 per cent of handicapped children, a separate school is being urged which must be equipped and arranged for their needs and for their alone. For placed in the same classes with normally equipped children, they have little chance for development. Unable to compete in the subjects, they become discouraged, have no interest and inevitably fall upon evil ways. Those of them who are strong physically often bully and abuse younger children and the timid weak ones are often in terror of the tormenting, teasing of their brighter classmates. In either case their attitude toward the world becomes hostile with the feeling that every one is against them—and in most cases they are a hindrance to the school and later through criminal tendencies thus developed become a menace to the community. The number of these actually dependent upon the public for support would doubtless be appalling if the figures were at hand.

INJUSTICE RECOGNIZED

The injustice against these children and its reaction against the regular classes and the community at large is readily recognized. "But to be fully appreciated it is necessary to see those children at work in a school of their own. One of the best in the state so far is that at Lancaster, Pa. The general impressions received from a look at this school are perhaps the strongest. The children are busy and happy. What is more, they are accomplishing something. The most surprising thing about their work was their independence in going about it.

There was one academic class—that means that practically all the children have one period a day devoted to book learning. With their hands, they are taught many things. There is brush making, the sawing out of toys and small articles of furniture, the making of rugs—hooked and woven, the painting of the toys, the cutting out of pictures and pasting them in books, with printed names sometimes—with the noontime meal prepared and served to all the children by the girls under the supervision of a teacher.

In some cases, the work is done very expertly. One boy in making hooked rugs showed phenomenal ability in the rapidity with which he worked. One girl was pointed out who is doing cooking in a private family in the evening and giving excellent satisfaction. Many become at least partly self supporting. They are also taught the joy of giving of their services to others. The Red Cross uses the boys in carrying packages and doing other errands. The fact that the noontime meal is eaten at school gives opportunity for teaching table manners and little courtesies.

The health teaching varies little from that in the regular classes. But they are drilled in personal cleanliness and personal hygiene.

VOLUNTARY SERVICE

One of the interesting features of this work is the voluntary service given to it by the "junior league", an organization of young society women. One of these young ladies was on duty in one of the classes visited where she was doing duty in the absence of the principal who was showing visitors over the school. This organization had furnished the equipment for two of the departments.

New Castle has already made a start in this worthy work. But experience has shown that in order to derive real benefits from it, the departmental plan must be worked out if possible and toward such an effort the opinion of the board is unanimous.

LAST WEEK'S COLUMN

Last week's article on School Libraries was written by Miss Nannie Mitchell. Miss Mitchell is principal of Mahoning school and in this school is found in operation a model of the libraries so well described. Any one interested in seeing young people in the enjoyment of good books in an attractive room would find a visit to this library worth while.

GENERAL ELECTRIC ALL-STEEL REFRIGERATOR Model G-40

In place of diamonds, gold, and finely wrought silver that might have tumbled out when the great Treasure Chest was opened, there stands revealed a thing of greater value still—the new small-family, All-Steel General Electric Refrigerator, Model G-40.

Into this new model have been put the efforts of the scientists and engineers of General Electric Company; the same group of men who perfected the sealed-in mechanism of the General Electric Refrigerator. This new achievement of the research laboratories marks the greatest improvement during the past 30 years, in the design and construction of household cabinets.

It's all steel, with electrically welded joints. Bronze hardware is bolted onto the steel. Black faced door edges . . . self-closing latch . . . gliders to protect linoleum . . . these and many other features are built into this new General Electric product.

This new small-family model makes electric refrigeration possible in every home. Its price is remarkably low. Only a small down payment is required. The balance can be paid conveniently over a period of time. Just a few dollars a month will do it.

Make Pennsylvania Mecca For Tourists

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, Pa., March 23.—With the touring season about to open, bringing millions of motorists from far and wide into this state, S. Edward Gable, president of the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, today stressed the importance of being cordial and courteous at all times to the stranger within our gates.

"All over the land the Keystone State is known for its hospitality," said Mr. Gable, "and we must make every effort to live up to that reputation. Cordial welcome means much to the tourist. It not only makes his trip more enjoyable, but leaves with him a most favorable impression, prompting him to return whenever opportunity offers, and to tell the people back home what a fine place Pennsylvania really is. Advertising of this sort brings returns that cannot be computed in dollars and cents alone."

"Pennsylvania has much to offer the tourist," Mr. Gable said. "Its beautiful scenery, fine roads, historic shrines, excellent hotels and numerous other attractions make it an ideal place through which to travel. Small wonder the Keystone State has become a veritable mecca for tourists, attracting more and more each year. Millions of dollars are spent by these tourists each year, so that from a business angle alone it can readily be realized what the tourist trade means to Pennsylvania."

"While this is very important in a business way, the reputation of Pennsylvania for hospitality must not be overlooked. There was a time not so many years ago when the villager and the farmer were in the habit of waving cordial welcome to the motorist as he wound his way along the highway. With the great increase in the number of cars and motorists this has, for the most part, come to be a thing of the past and there is a growing tendency to look upon the tourist as an outsider speeding along on his way from state to state. In many instances he is just that, but even so he should be made to feel the warmth of welcome while in Pennsylvania. Most of those who cater to the tourist trade endeavor to make the traveler feel at home, but communities by means of cordial signs of welcome, courteous traffic officers and individual citizens who do their share, no matter how small, when opportunity offers, can do much in keeping Pennsylvania in the forefront rank of states that tourists want to visit."

"Let us all bear in mind," the federation head stated, "that the average tourist is an individual much like ourselves, away from home and appreciative of cordiality in whatever form it may be extended."

Ask Marking Of Railroad Stations For Plane Pilots

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 23.—The success of the plan of air-marking cities and towns, in which Pennsylvania civic organizations have participated by painting the names of the cities and towns on roofs of tall buildings, has led the aeronautics branch of the United States commerce department to urge that the same program be carried out in air-marking railroad stations and train sheds in the state.

"In the more thickly settled parts of the country the railroads are first order landmarks to the pilot and the town mark is much more likely to be discovered when it appears on or along railroad property," the aeronautics branch of the department says. "At least one railroad has undertaken to air-mark some of its stations, but there is no greater obligation on the part of railroads than there is upon various aeronautical organizations about the country."

"Chambers of commerce, local airport management, aero clubs and city chapters might well take it upon themselves to see that railroads and other structures in the vicinity are properly marked."

MODERN PARENT
"Oh, sir," stammered a young man from East Brook recently to the father of a girl of the town. "I—er—that is, I—er, I would like to mean I have— Well, I've been using with your daughter for five years now."

"Yes," cut in the old parent, cross at having his reading interrupted. "Well, what do you want—a pension?"

PROOF POSITIVE.

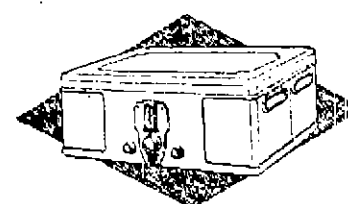

They were sitting together and after a brief silence the pretty girl said: "You seem very quiet tonight, Roland. Are you—are you sure you love me?"

"Love you!" Roland exclaimed. "Why good heavens Rhoda, when we were saying goodbye at the gate last night your dog bit a piece out of my leg and I never even noticed it till I got home!"

Thousands In France Visit Foch's Bier Was Beloved By All

Due To Family Wishes Foch Will Not Be Buried Under Arch Of Triumph

France To Pay Greatest
Honor To Late World War Chief; Burial
Tuesday

By FREDERICK ABBOTT,
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS, March 23.—Solemn thousands again lined the length of the De Grenelle in silence today for an opportunity to pay homage to their departed idol, Marshal Ferdinand Foch, whose body lies in state in his home in that street.

Long before the doors of the home of the late marshal were opened at ten o'clock this morning to permit the first on line to enter, the street was filled with a sombre throng. Those in the highest stations of life mingled with poorly garbed clerks and stenographers. Here and there in the crowd was a youngster standing patiently and waiting to be allowed to pay his last respects. Not all in the waiting line were French. People of many nationalities, among them many Americans, were noted.

The public was to be allowed to view the late marshal's bier today from ten until noon and then again from two in the afternoon until seven in the evening.

Widow Bearing Up
Madame Foch is bearing up bravely under her loss. Despite her deep sorrow she personally received many of the more distinguished visitors who came to express their sympathy. Although the French government wished to accord the late marshal the supreme honor of burial under the arch of triumph, where lies the unknown hero, his family stated that as a "devout Catholic he could not be buried there as the ground is not consecrated."

The marshal's body therefore, will be interred under the dome of Les Invalides on Tuesday, near the remains of his famed predecessor in military glory, Napoleon Bonaparte. Tomorrow morning, the marshal's body will be removed to the arch of triumph under which it will lie in state until Monday night.

It will then be removed to the Cathedral of Notre Dame where the religious funeral ceremonies will be held at nine o'clock Tuesday morning. The national funeral will follow. It will be one of the greatest funerals ever accorded a Frenchman. Double rows of troops will line the entire route from the cathedral to Les Invalides.

FLYING NORTH - - - - - By Laird

Spring is here and the northward flight from the now too sunny south has begun. Birds have started, many of them have arrived. They have no bags and boxes to pack, no houses to close. Only the word passed around to all the tribe and the flight begins, and pretty soon they are building the new home for the new family. Humans must pack their golf things and their swimming togs and close up the southern home and at last, when all is done, take a wearisome train for the northland. But spring is in the air when they arrive. No new home to build, but maybe preparations for a June wedding not so far away. And there are friends to greet and numerous spring activities to meet and it is home, sweet home, until the trek still farther north begins, to escape the heat of the summer.

Unusually Cold Weather Experienced In Europe, Writes Mrs. James T. Ray

Mrs. and Mrs. James T. Ray and family who are spending the winter in the south of France state that the weather over there has been unusually cold and disagreeable. In a letter mailed March 4 to Mr. and Mrs. Fred L. Ritz, they recount many of their experiences in Rome, Florence and Venice.

Mrs. Ray states that they were disappointed in their attempt to secure an audience with the Pope because he had been ill. They enjoyed their stay in Rome however and were deeply impressed with the city. The churches, they found were very cold due to a lack of modern heating systems.

In Florence they visited the great art galleries but were still troubled by the cold. There was no snow now, except in the mountainous regions.

Venice they found the canals frozen over and travel was most difficult as a result. The hotels in Venice were warm and comfortable, though, they report. They were unable to dock at Venice because of the roughness of the sea but had to land at Trieste and here they had several harrowing experiences.

The light they arrived in Trieste the wind was so severe that a street car was blown off the tracks in front of their hotel. When they got out the next morning they found many of the streets had ropes stretched along the sides to keep the people from being blown over.

Their boat was still unable to dock and they left for Constantinople on an Italian boat, the Terve which had been chartered by the Canadian Pacific to enable them to continue their trip on scheduled time.

They had expected to land in Constantinople the following Tuesday after the letter was written. Here they expected to board their own boat and to get their personal effects back again.

Mrs. Ray states that they have all been well and happy and that the girls were enjoying the trip immensely. They expect to be back in New Castle early in June she writes.

Not that it was any trouble for anyone short of dyspeptic to eat at that banquet. Roast turkey and strawberry shortcake isn't hard to take at any time and after waiting until nearly 6:30 for the soup call, one feels the need of plenty of filling.

There was considerable dignity at the banquet. Oodles of it in fact. Justices and judges and just lawyers, beginning at the chief justice of the State Supreme Court and working down to the most recent law students.

night for the closing performance. In all there were probably 3500 admissions to this splendid show, which marks a new high as they say in Wall Street, for local talent productions. "Daisy" will now get a little more attention.

This man Hoover doesn't fool about his economy. After he found out that it cost $300,000.00 to operate the Mayflower per year, he marks it off the list of presidential perquisites. Probably wasn't getting enough mileage out of the coal.

Not even Cal could top that for real economy. The question now is, what are they going to do with the yacht? Applications should be mailed to the secretary of the navy.

It's quite a ways from Christmas and all the trimmings that go with it. Hence, Christmas trees are just a bit off the line in the way of outdoor decorations. Will the folks on Walnut Street take their Christmas tree in or down or out or something, and thus relieve the mental state of a friend of this column who has taken a daily delight in seeing of the tree was still up.

The Way OF THE World

By GROVE PATTERSON

PROPHETS.
Edward Bellamy a great thinker, a man with vision to see far beyond his times, wrote years ago a book called "Looking Backward." He saw a better world and he made others see it. Not long ago a committee at Teachers college, Columbia university, recommended a plan that had been set forth long ago by Edward Bellamy in a book that many thought was merely the work of an impractical dreamer. Among the plans of Bellamy's Utopia was one for centrally located kitchens which would furnish small communities thus relieving housewives of some of their drudgery. This idea now has the O. K. of a most modern committee.

MARTYRS.
Men who think far ahead of their fellows usually have to suffer a kind of martyrdom. They are laughed at. Sometimes they are called crazy. Sometimes they are locked up. Sometimes they are crucified. In the end the rank and file of us keep the rewards of their vision.

THE SIMPLE LIFE.
The college paper in Northampton, Mass., prints the following notice: "Calvin Coolidge has returned to his home at Northampton after an extended stay in Washington." There was no further comment.
That is exactly as Mr. Coolidge would wish it. For most of us Americans who are always wishing to make a stir about something or other, the ex-president sets a beautiful example. He steps out of private life to do some big jobs in public life. Having properly performed them he steps back quietly and unobtrusively into private life. It is an example of the simple life at its best.

NO SPEED LIMIT.
It is a wise tendency in legislatures that seeks to take the exact speed limit for country roads off the books. Some of the most dangerous drivers never drive fast. Some of the fastest drivers are the most careful. Courtesy and caution should be the twin rules of motor car drivers. A speed limit law on the open road is rarely observed and it only adds one more statute to the dead letter book. We need fewer laws and more common sense.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Cool wave expected to center on March 20 will give way to a gradual rise in average temperatures after that date; this moderate warm wave will end as center on moderate storm wave, expected to cross continent during week centering on 25, crosses continent. Storm wave centering on 25 will be expected to move down into southern states of Great Central valleys and be followed by a northern cold wave and southern cool wave; as this quick drop in average temperatures progresses eastward, storm force will reach greatest intensity of month but will not be expected to be generally severe nor dangerous, furnishing conditions conducive to the formation of moderate, equinoctial storms and other typical March weather. A moderate warm wave of short duration will center on 31, but ten day period following storm wave centering on 25 will be expected to average below normal temperatures generally over the continent. Precipitation during this ten day period will average about normal for the continent, falling mostly on Atlantic coast and Gulf states. Precipitation will be expected to remain below normal in western and north-central Great Central valleys during the immediate future; in other sections, ample precipitation for germination and early growth will be expected.
Summary of cropweather features expected during April will appear in next weekly bulletin. Moon phases of the near future occur as follows: Full Moon March 25, Last Quarter April 2, New Moon 9, First Quarter 16, Full Moon 23, Last Quarter May 2.
Farm Relief
Henry Ford has finally and adequately solved the farm relief problem, according to Arthur Brisbane, philosophical egotist of the Hearst publications. Brisbane quotes Henry Ford as stating that the farmer must do his work during the summer months so that he can take a job in the city during winter months. This brilliant idea was probably worked out in detail during hard games of golf in California and Florida.
Farm relief that does not give the American farmer a legitimate profit for his labor and investment would be farce. Now that the seasons of heaviest precipitation of this period are drawing to a close, flood relief is becoming fact, the slowly. Had a system of farm relief that would lift the exportable surplus temporarily from the markets been in force since 1928 harvest, such action would have been worth more than one hundred millions to American farmers and almost as much to the organization that held the surplus, before 1929 harvest is completed. Farm products consumed in America must bring a price comparable to prices in competing countries; otherwise a protective tariff will not protect.

WAR TIME LETTERS BY COL. LEASURE

Written From Battle-front During Civil War

From Papers of Late
Col. J. S. DuShane

Col. Daniel Leasure
Picture Property of T. A. Preston, 1218 East Washington Street

Editor's Note:—With today's issue the Col. Leasure letters cease, all having been published.
The following is the last that has been presented to The News.

Richmond, Oct. 25, 1864.
Dear Sir:
Your inquiry about Lieutenant G.
S. Leasure came to hand. I give you at my earliest moment the result of my inquiries. The only facts I could learn were these:

On the 30th of July two men approached on opposite sides the dead body of an officer lying beside the crater of a mine. One of whom we look from his person a gold watch, the other a leather watch, shattered
by a ball.

My informant tried to find out their names, hoping to get some ridings of the adjutant from them, but could not, the men fearing, as he thought, to confess lest they should be punished for plundering and made to give up the watches. He thinks this officer may have been the adjutant.

If so, he was buried in the crater and as several hundred bodies were covered up then, it would be impossible now to exhume or identify any particular one. This is all I can learn and Col. L. may be able to judge whether this was probably that of his son. As it may not, I will preserve your letter, and if I learn anything further will let you know. I regret I can give no more certain tidings.

I thank you for your kindness to my boys. I hope I may be able to recuperate it. My kind regards to your venerable father and all the rest of your family and L. L. McGuffin.
I am,
J. V. MOORE.

WALTER WINCHELL

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to New Castle News

NEW YORK, March 23.—It was recently recorded here that Joan Lowell, author of the ace seller, "The Cradle of the Deep," had discovered that the ukulele was brought to Hawaii by a Harvard man. We quoted the startling information from the mimeographed copy supplied by Simon & Schuster. Now comes a finger-pointer named C. S. Dunning of Hollywood, who titters and argues that the Harvard man was not a Yankee, as the statement led readers to believe. His name was Juan Fernandez, and he was schooled at Cambridge.

Juan wandered to the Azores after he left his alma mater, to hear Mr.
Dunning chuckle about it. Losing his currency, his sheepskin and his clothes in a dice game, he went to work in the fields. Always a wanderer, he seized the opportunity of a trip to Hawaii. With others he enlisted in a labor army to till the cane fields of Ewa and was transported there by the Sugar Planters' association. That was in the early '70s. At any rate, it was in 1876 that the first record of the ukulele was found.
Whether it was brought from the Portuguese Azores by Fernandez or is an adaptation of an instrument he had learned to play there, isn't known.

The name, of course, is Hawaiian—"lele," meaning a musical instrument, and "uku," meaning a note or any other small bug. It is pronounced "oo-koo-lay-lay." Hawaiian melodies spring from the Ten-toric musical memories of Captain Berger, whose Christian name might be Henry. With instruments to equip a band he was sent as a gift to the reigning Hawaiian monarch in the late '80s. The German emperor did the presenting. Captain Berger taught all the natives the music they know now. He founded the Royal Hawaiian band, which still plays for every outgoing steamer. He died about a dozen years ago.

Native music consisted of a rhythmic pounding of dried calabashes.
Hulas were danced to it, melees chanted to it. The mele was the only song form of ancient Hawaii, and consisted of a recital of its legendary history and glories and of a prediction for the future.

In fewer words, an American didn't bring the ukule to Hawaii. "Hawaiian" music is German in origin, and is played on a Portuguese instrument!

OF ALL THINGS:

chased Florida groves, to the poor poor are expected to furnish their own gin.

WHAT THE BABY SAID
Harry Jans relays the one about the modern child who came into the house whistling for her dog.
"Your Laddie is dead," he got killed," said her mother, indifferently.
The child kept calling for the hound, however.
"I said," shouted her mother, "that your Laddie got run over and he's dead!"
"Boo! hoo!" cried the hysterical kid, "hoo-hoo-ooo-ooo! I thought you said Daddy!"

the disappointed Chicagoan, clinching my conviction that writers should be read and not met."

Well, that can easily be explained.
In Chicago, perhaps, it is safer to spill your space fillers before prospective readers, but not in New York, where there are so many columnists
you wonder where the readers come from.

To be more explicit, a fudge shop,
on Broadway, in the latter '40s, now features a column on the back of the menus!

low's gab-in-the-sewer drawings.

HIGH LIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

The Story Of American Industry
Paper Making—(Part One)—Ancient Writing Materials

THE MAKING OF PAPER MAY WELL BE SAID TO BE ONE OF OUR MOST IMPORTANT INDUSTRIES. ON PAPER THE THOUGHTS AND DEEDS OF MEN OF THE DISTANT PAST ARE PRESERVED, AND KNOWLEDGE IS SPREAD OVER THE EARTH. ON PAPER WE COMMUNICATE OUR THOUGHTS TO ONE ANOTHER OVER GREAT DISTANCES, AND BY MEANS OF THE DAILY NEWSPAPER WE ARE CONSTANTLY KEPT INFORMED OF THE AFFAIRS OF THE WORLD.

BY FACILITATING COMMUNICATION, PAPER HAS CONTRIBUTED MUCH TO THE ADVANCEMENT OF CIVILIZATION. A SHARP PIECE OF FLINT, A FLINT HAMMER AND THE FLAT FACE OF A ROCKY CLIFF WERE THE WRITING MATERIALS OF THE CAVE MAN OF PREHISTORIC DAYS. HAVING NO ALPHABET, HE RECORDED THE HAPPENINGS OF THE DAY'S HUNT AND OTHER EVENTS WITH CRUDE PICTURES AND SYMBOLS.

THE ANCIENT BABYLONIANS WROTE UPON TABLETS OF CLAY, WHICH FOR PERMANENT RECORD WERE BAKED IN THE SUN. THEY SCRATCHED THEIR ODD-LOOKING CHARACTERS UPON THE CLAY WITH A STYLUS WHICH MADE A PECULIAR WEDGE-SHAPED IMPRESSION, HENCE THEIR WRITING HAS SINCE BEEN CALLED "CUNEIFORM" (MEANING WEDGE-SHAPED).

THE EGYPTIANS GOT THEIR WRITING MATERIAL FROM THE TALL PAPYRUS PLANT THAT GREW IN THE MARSHES BESIDE THE NILE. THEY SLICED THE PAPYRUS STALK INTO LONG, NARROW RIBBONS, WHICH THEY GUMMED TOGETHER, SIDE BY SIDE, TO FORM A LONG SHEET WHICH THEY ROLLED UP INTO A SCROLL. THEY WROTE WITH REED PENS AND A KIND OF INK.

Jimmy McLarnin Defeats Miller In Slow Battle

New York Fight Fans "Taken For Ride" As Battlers Stall Through Ten Rounds

BIGGEST CROWD EVER AT GARDEN CONTEST

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service
NEW YORK, March 23.—Three desperate one-shot men, Jimmy McLarnin, and Ray Miller, were killers in cold blood on former occasions, but last night they were just a couple of small boys at guns that shot off ten rounds of blanks before a crowd whose distinction only was exceeded by its profound apathy. Yes, just a couple of small boys they were, weighing respectively 135 and 133 pounds, and this really was too bad because they encouraged the greatest crowd that ever saw a fight at Madison Square Garden, 22,000, to come out and suffer the anguish of which only a disillusioned fight crowd is capable.

There was considerably more than $111,000, a local record for 10 fights, inside the windows out back at the dead line, and this money stayed to see considerably less than $11 worth of fighting. McLarnin did nearly all of the shooting while Miller attended very carefully to all of the shoving and, as usual, they paid off on the former. McLarnin won eight of the ten rounds, trying very earnestly to bound a K. O. off a chin that seldom, if ever, was there.

McLarnin Easy Winner
Miller donated more weight than the official figures showed and his evident reaction was to take no chances. He succeeded. In fact in taking less than that, he never came out of his capsule, except on rare and very temporary occasions. On the last of these, he took a look at the time clock in the last minute of play and then lashed out that famous left hook of his, upon which McLarnin showed his appreciation by punching Raymond dizzy.

That was about all the mugs got for their evening away from home and mother and, if it was $111,000 worth, then John L. Sullivan was a window dresser.

The verdict completed reversed the order of the finish at Detroit the first time this pair was out. The fight last night was too innocuous, too dispiriting, to mean anything except pain to the beholder.

The only thing comparable with it, in the matter of advance interest and lack of action, was the terrible Maloney-Delaney "bust" of several years ago.

Miller Wouldn't Fight
Miller has done most of his fighting around Chicago and the Middle-west. But I'm certain he is well acquainted in New Haven, nobody else could have taken that "hold 'em Yale" thing so literally. He was impressive in only one round, the fourth, in which it seemed possible for him to ruck McLarnin with a straight left. I presume this is the time he abandoned those tactics immediately, anyhow, he made almost no fight of any kind, except in spasmodic flashes; he grabbed, he held, he covered, he ducked. But he didn't fight, there are a lot of smart men in this world. But none of them has discovered a way to win a fight without fighting.

War having been declared in New York City against the mosquitoes it is up to the latter to call for reinforcements from nearby New Jersey.—The Lowell Evening Leader.

Lincolns To Play Sewickley Quintet

Tonight the fast Lincoln Five, runners up to the Rick Motors for the City League title, will journey to Sewickley for a game with the Sewickley "Y" team coached by Harry Day, former New Castle physical director. The Sewickley passers have a fine reputation in the circle and are confident of turning the trick against the Lincolns. The locals will have to play fast basketball to win tonight.

The Lincolns defeated the New Wilmington Scholastics this week and are anxious to make it two straight victories for the week. Next Monday the Lincolns go to Warren, Ohio, where they are scheduled to meet the Sphinx club in a return game.

The following Lincolns will make the trip to Sewickley tonight: Captain "Bub" Jones, Kulich, McClelland, Gennock, Bruce, Uhle, Hill, Thomas and Manager Parker.

Kraft Wins Swimming Letter At Columbia

Johnny Kraft, one of New Castle's most popular athletes, ended his college athletic career last week, when diving for Columbia University Swimming team, he took second place against University of Pennsylvania. Kraft had no intention of going out for the swimming team this season, due to the fact that his school work took up much of his time. One day as Kraft was swimming in the school pool the swimming coach happened to notice him doing a few dives, he immediately wanted Kraft to come out for the team, but as he could not get away from his work, he did not come out for practice.

The night that Johnny returned to school from his Christmas vacation, Columbia was swimming against Fordham University, and the coach sent word to Johnny to come out that evening. Without any preliminary practice, and much to the surprise to the fans and team mates, he took first place in the diving. This was a big feat for a new man, as Ford-

Dear Rudolph:
It was rather cold in Chicago but it was freezing in Cleveland. I found the sun shining when I reached St. Louis.

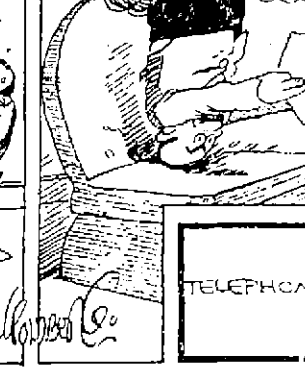

The weather in Omaha was lovely with the exception of a few showers. The temperature during my stay in Denver averaged around sixty-seven.

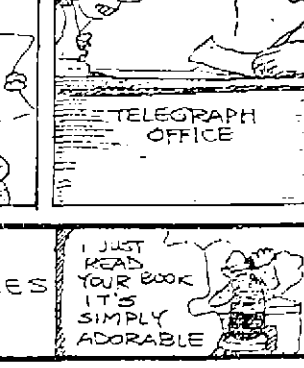

I found Dallas ideal with the exception of one cold night. It rained a bit in Los Angeles. The air in San Francisco was very crisp but Portland was cloudy.

The afternoons in Seattle were warmer than the mornings. It proved the second, fifth and seventh days of my stay in Seattle.

JULIA, COME HOME—IF WEATHER IS THE ONLY THING YOU'RE INTERESTED IN, WE HAVE PLenty OF IT RIGHT HERE.

Sharon-Hazleton Battle Tonight For State Title

Shenango Valley Team Favored To Cop Scholastic State Gonfalon Tonight

PITTSBURGH, March 23.—There should be a whale of a game at Pitt stadium here tonight when Sharon and Hazleton high school basketball teams meet for the state championship of the P. I. A. A.

Sharon trampled over Altoona high 20 to 12, in the first of the semi-finals last night. Hazleton did likewise to Reading by a score of 34 to 16. Hazleton was two points behind at the close of the first quarter, three to five. In the second the score was 15 to eight. Hazleton scored ten in the third period to Reading's six, and nine to two was the scoring in the final period.

Wolgast And Grande Battle Here Monday

By ED FRUEZ
Fight fans from various points in the Tri-State district will crowd the Jolly Bowl Monday night when Midget Wolgast the champion flyweight of Pennsylvania and Frisco Grande, sensational Filipino puncher battle 10 rounds.

Wolgast and Grande are reported to be in superb fighting condition and the winner may be matched to box world's champion Izzy Schwartz here this summer.

Never in the history of New Castle pugilism has such interest been shown as in the coming bout. Wolgast is quite a favorite in this section owing to the fact that he is rated as one of the greatest flyweights and Grande is a sensational fighter with French Bellanger, Izzy Schwartz, Ben Jarvis, Tommy Paul and Willie Davies has installed him in the affection of local fans.

"Mayor of Chinatown."
Wolgast will arrive here Sunday. He will be accompanied by his retinue of trainers and among those who will travel from Gotham to see him fight will be Johnny Kevan, a familiar figure in American life. In New York Kevan is known as the Mayor of Chinatown and he rules over that portion of New York as Mayor Jimmy Walker does the balance of the big metropolis.

The Filipino will be accompanied by Benny Irone, gray-haired veteran of many fights and known as one of the "smartest" men in the country. The Phils realize that Monday night he will have an opportunity that comes but seldom and he proposes according to letters received here to make the most of it. He will bore in constantly, he has declared and try for a knockout which assures the fans that Wolgast also sag to battle a sensational scrap can be anticipated.

White Gloves.
For the first time in the history of boxing east of California, white gloves will be used. They were sent here especially at the request of Jolly Bowl Promoter, Bill Jolly. It was explained that there is not much danger of infection to wounds from white gloves while there is, it is claimed, from the tan mitts. Five ounce gloves will be used and in adopting the white gloves the Jolly Bowl is setting a precedent that will probably be copied.

George Rohanna of Cleveland, and Johnny Hahn of City 148, will box in the semi-final and Romeo Pacelli and Young Kaiser, 130 lbs., the latter of Akron will step in the other six round bout. Young Burns, Pittsburgh and Tom O'Leary, Wilkes-Barre, 122, will slug and Young Stemple of Akron, and Mickey Donato Ashtabula, flyweights will open the show with a burst of speed.

Reservations Going Fast.
It is reported by Frank Ross who is in charge of the advance sale at the Bowl that the reservations already made exceed any tour held in New Castle which augurs for a crowd of five thousand fans. Many of the leaders in reference walks of life here and in surrounding counties have already received their reservations. Tickets tonight can be purchased at the Leslie hotel. In fact it behooves those who want reservations to hurry.

According to statement the fight will be a "natural." Everyone wants to see the fight. It is said that Willie Davies, the great little Welsh lad and a boy who has thousands of fans here may be here. The writer has asked Davies to meet the winner and thus later on the Bowl will try to bring Izzy Schwartz here for a muller fight.

Extra Seating Secured.
The first bout will start at 8:15 p. m. Pete Capitola well known sportsman, has been selected as timekeeper. The boxing commission is withholding the identities of the referee and judges. George Chip former middleweight champion has been working as third man but a strange referee may be sent here by Commissioner H. J. Boyle.

Promptly at 7 o'clock the doors will be thrown open. A huge automobile piano has been placed in the Bowl to play out the latest musical hits while the fans collect. State police, County Detective Fleming and Chief of Police Horner will have squads present to keep the big crowd moving.

Headquarters for the buyers has been established at the Leslie where reserved tickets can be had. Telephone orders are being accepted during Saturday and Monday at the Jolly Bowl by Frank Ross in charge of the seating arrangements and indications point to a crowded house by the time the first bell rings. Rain will not interfere with hostilities as the Bowl is enclosed.

New York Giants To Be In Thick Of Fight For Flag This Year

International News Service Staff
SAN ANTONIO, Texas, March 23.—What price the Giants against the Chicago Cubs?

From this angle and on this date, the Giants are even money with any team in the race. As the club has shown in training camp, McGraw has acquired strength equivalent to five games over last season. This power is centered in a greatly improved Andy Reese, working in smoother combination with Travis Jackson. Two good young pitchers in Warren H. "Curley" Ogden and Carl Hubbell with Bill Walker, another left hander, a glowy possibility. The Giants dropped the league series to the Chicago Cubs last year, yet they defeated the Burins over the pennant campaign by a margin of five or six games.

Horsey Aids Cubs
The Cubs, through the acquisition of Rogers Hornsby, figure to be eight games stronger than they were in 1928, and if the Giants had not improved themselves, Chicago would have to be rated the better team. But giving the Cubs added strength equivalent to eight games, and the Giants added power equivalent to five, or possibly six games, there is still an edge for New York of a couple of games.

The Giants are a known quantity. We know that Welsh or Roush in center field will give the team hitting

Rookie Crashes Thru

"Outlaw" Triple Of Husky Marine Cost Rookie Only Defeat Of Season

Mixing football with baseball, in the circle above, three rookies of the Philadelphia Athletics' squad at Fort Myers, Fla., revert to type with a bit of grid play. "Red" Hume, former Southern Methodist backfield star, is running with the "ball". Miller Brown, former Missouri U. star, is trying to take out Bill Breckinridge, who starred at Dartmouth. Below, Nick Borelli, former all-American star at Muhlenberg, in action.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Sports Writer for Central Press and New Castle News

FT. MYERS, Fla., March 23.—From the squad of players working out these days under the banner of the Philadelphia Athletics, a football team of near all-American strength might well be organized over night. And included in the 11 men selected would be Bill Breckinridge, late of Dartmouth.

Although Breckinridge quit college at the close of his sophomore year—won over by the lure of professional baseball—he had won attention through the East for his grid activities.

But this is about Breckinridge, the baseball player, so to that angle of it first.

The Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals, champions of the National League last year, hooked up in the first of the season's exhibition games in the Florida training camp region. Breckinridge pitched part of the game for the Athletics and acquitted himself in creditable fashion in the box. In addition to this he cracked out a ringing triple in a vain effort to start a rally that would overcome the two-run lead of the Cardinals crew.

That triple brought back the memory of another game to the young pitcher—a game that prevented him hanging up a perfect record in his final year as hurler for the Big Green team at Hanover.

Breckinridge won nine and lost one game for Dartmouth last year. That one defeat wasn't at the hands of a college team.

Dartmouth journeyed to Quantico, Vt., to play the Quantico Marines. Dartmouth took the lead early in the game and held it. The score was 4 to 2 in Dartmouth's favor as they went into the last couple of innings. Then two errors by the Dartmouth infield put two of the Marines on base.

Cambridge Wins Big Boat Race

Cambridge Rowers Far Ahead Of Oxford Rowers In Race On Thames River

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent
PUTNEY, Eng., March 23.—Cambridge University celebrated the centenary of the famous Oxford-Cambridge boat race today by decisively beating Oxford in this historic rowing contest on the River Thames. Cambridge won by seven boat lengths.

A crowd of nearly 1,500,000 people that lined both sides of the river sent up a thunderous cheer that rolled up and down the length of the 4 1/4 mile course between Putney and Mortlake when Cambridge, after getting away behind its opponent, began to forge ahead.

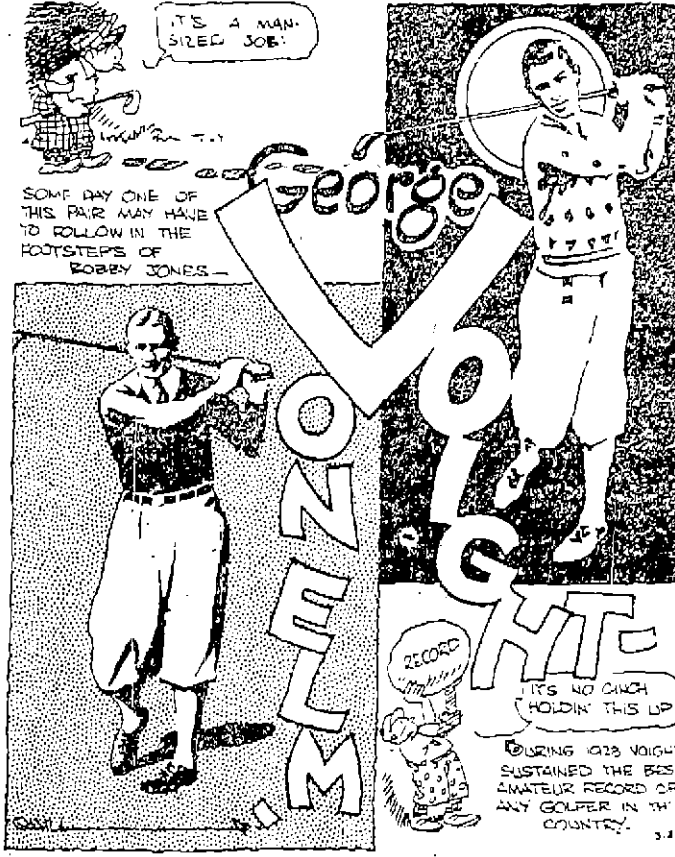

At the end of the first mile the light blue oarsmen (Cambridge) were leading by a quarter of a boat length. At the end of the second mile the Cambridge crew were one and one-half boat lengths ahead of their dark blue (Oxford) opponents.

At the end of the third mile Cambridge was three boat lengths in the lead. This lead was gradually extended to nine boat lengths at the end of the fourth mile.

The dark blue oarsmen could not stand the terrific pace. Their stroke weakened and at the finish they were seven boat lengths behind the powerful Cambridge crew.

Cambridge's victory evened up the score with Oxford. In the past 10 years the race has been rowed 81 times. Cambridge and Oxford has each won 40 times. The contest in 1877 was a dead heat.

Mere Pastimers

VON ELM IS THE ONLY GOLFER WHO HAS DEFEATED JONES IN THE NATIONAL AMATEUR SINCE BOBBY STARTED WINNING (REGULARLY) IN 1924. (By Eugene Sweeney, Jr., Great Britain sports editor.)

By QUIN HALL
There are two distinct classes of golfers in the United States—the fellows who play it for the mere pleasure of playing and the boys who follow the sport in a more commercial manner. The former are the amateurs while the latter are referred to as professionals. Quite often the amateurs are also referred to as pastimers.

Bobby Jones, Atlanta's great shot-maker, is the king of the pastimers. For a good many years, Bobby has held the center of the amateur golfing platform and he has done a particularly good job of it. Bobby will probably always remain an amateur, but it is doubtful if he will ever be as active in tournament play as he has been in the past. He is getting along in years and, while he isn't an old man in any sense of the word, he is devoting more and more time to the law business. It is hardly likely that he will enter more than one or two tournaments this coming summer.

For years Bobby Jones has been what is referred to in newspaper parlance as "good copy." He has given the sports writers much to write about and he is still colorful enough to furnish several stories every year, but the day is coming when Bobby will be only a memory in actual tournament play.

Among the other leading pastimers, Von Elm and George Von Elm and George Von Elm are the two best equipped to keep amateur golf on the pinnacle it attained through the magic of Bobby Jones. One of these Georges should become ultimately the standard bearer for the amateurs.

When Bobby needs a successor he'll likely say, "Let George do it!" It will undoubtedly be a tough job for the fans to figure out which "George" he refers to.

Both Von Elm and Voight have records which are almost as alike as their initials. With Jones, these two golfers compose the trio which tops the amateur ranks. All three are capable of causing plenty of consternation among the professions when their names are listed as starters in any of the open tournaments.

Von Elm is the only player who has defeated Bobby Jones in the national amateur and, for that feat alone, Von Elm will always be famous. In the Gold Medal tournament at Newport, last summer, the blonde amateur tied the local record by covering the 72 holes in 272. During the recent winter season, Von Elm shot brilliant golf on the Pacific coast. He drives magnificently, plays his iron shots like a master, and merits plenty of watching no matter what company he is playing with.

While Voight has never won the national amateur title from Jones, he has played consistently good golf over a long period and richly deserves to be ranked with the top-notchers. His silk flowers of the same color.

boosters contend that he is better than Von Elm but the latter's backers merely shake their heads sideways. It's that close!

During 1928, Voight is credited with sustaining the best amateur record of any golfer in the country. Voight started his last year's season in Florida, then ranged far and wide over the country, collecting stock for his trophy chest and playing consistently good golf wherever he roamed.

This year, Voight started play near Miami and he is well conditioned for a long and strenuous season. It's hard to say which Von Elm or Voight will do the best work this year, but it will be worth while to watch both carefully.

Much Interest In Jewish Art Exhibit

The Public Will Be Given An Opportunity To See Same Sunday Evening

There is widespread interest in the Jewish Art exhibit to be held Sunday evening from 8 to 10:30 p. m. in Temple Israel, Highland avenue, under the auspices of the Wider Scope Committee of the B'nai B'rith with the local assistance of the New Castle lodge of that order.

All will be welcome to attend this affair and see some of the greater things in painting, sculpture and etching that have been the work of famous Jewish artists from the period of 1890 to the present day.

Maurice L. Augenblock, journalist and art student, is in charge of the exhibit and will talk on art appreciation and Jewish Art.

over the infield and the umpire immediately ruled him out under the rule covering the infield fly.

That was perfectly proper, of course but the ball in descending came down almost on second base. In fact the base runner on that sack in endeavoring to get out of the way lost his balance and fell off the bag completely. The shortstop, about to make the catch, tripped over him, and the ball fell safely but hit the sprawling base runner between the shoulders.

At once the claim was made of a double play. The batter was automatically retired and didn't a batted ball strike a case runner? It did. The umpire had to think quickly. He refused to permit the second out. That was one for the boys to think over.

ABE MARTIN On Women And Tobacco

STEALIN' A FEW WHIFFS

"I don't particularly like smoking, but I hardly ever refuse a cigarette. It sounds so weak an independent to say, 'No, I never use 'em,' and this is no day an age for weak women," declares Mrs. Joe Kite. "An' continuin'." "For years men monopolized all the habits an' all the freedom. I kin hardly realize that times have changed so much when I enumerate all the things a woman kin get away with today an' still hold her position as the earth's most adorable livin' thing. Oh, if our women o' today were only like our mothers an' gran'mothers o' yesterday, is a common expression. I don't know what particular mothers an' gran'mothers that wad refer to. My mother didn't only smoke, but she raised her own tobacco. She didn't flaunt her pipe, she didn't smoke at funerals an' weddin's, but I've seen her at family reunions when she'd stroll off in the woods for a few whiffs. I don't believe I ever seen man refuse a cigar. My gran'maw chewed tobacco an' plowed, ringed hogs, split rails, an' cradled oats, an' she might have worn knee high skirts if work hadn't knocked her all out o' shape. After the ole time mother got through workin' she didn't have energy enough to cross her legs, much less attend a party. Prob'ly ther wuz as much promiscuous drinkin' in gran'maw's day, for ther wuzn' anything to do or any place to go, after one did git up. It kin't likely young folks wud git pickled at a taffy pullin' or a magic lantern show. I'll admit women wuz more modest, more like scared sheep, on my mother's day. They rode horses sideways, but how they eve' climbed in a buggy wearin' hoop skirts without scandalizin' the whole public square is not of record. Prob'ly ther used to be fewer divers an' women were more easily controlled, but nobuddy knows what they used to think. We must not forget that in mothers' day the only avenues open to women led to the altar or the stage. It wuzn't so easy for a wife to flare up an' quit, or a daughter to tell her parents where to head in. But morals have allus been purty much the same. We're only more liberal today, we look at things differently. We wudn't turn around to see a woman step on a camel today, but I recall ole windy Marches when a woman wudn't dare to go down town. A wild woman caused fifty percent more havoc even ten years ago than she does today, an' even in maw's day it wuz very unusual to find a community that couldn't boast of at least one wild woman. An' my, how the storekeepers an' loafers gawked at her when she ventured downtown to the post-office. But we've grown accustomed to electricity, the auto, an' carrots with peas, an' the aeroplane, an' the way things are workin' out it won't be long till I'll take a full fledged Lady Godiva to cause even a flutter. Heaven Sent Revival Theme Of Sermon

The results of a Heaven sent revival was the sermon last night at Pentecostal tabernacle, South street from the text Psalm 85-6 "While thou, not revive us again that Thy people may rejoice in Thee."

Rev. Logan declared that a revival always brings a time of great rejoicing.

lives are transformed. Heaven becomes richer, hell poorer and this world brighter and better.

The people of Israel rejoiced when redeemed from the bondage of Egypt, they sang songs of deliverance and joy. There was music and dancing in the home of the prodigal when he returned home.

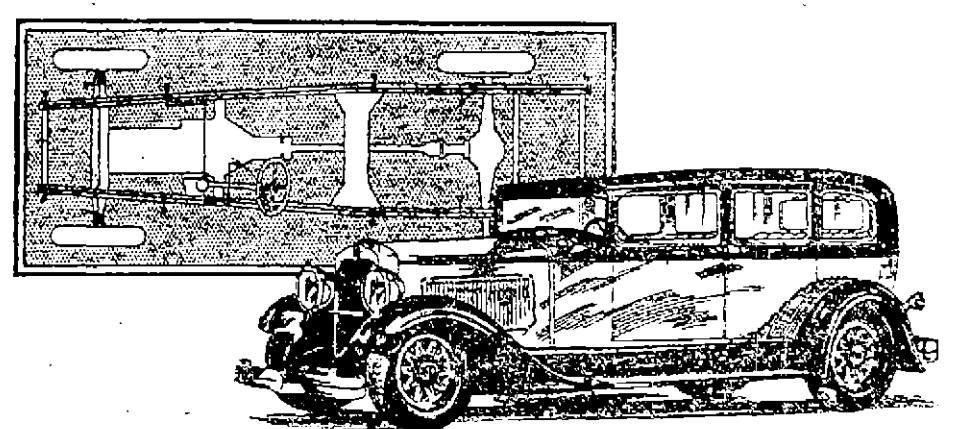

Many political, social and religious problems are settled when God sends a mighty revival of religion. It is said by many in England that the revivals of John Wesley saved England from revolution.

The days of John Knox and the early Presbyterian Covenanters, Scotland was stirred to a life of holiness by a mighty revival. God sends such revival to this great land of America at this time said the evangelist.

The revival meetings will continue next week. Services every night except Saturday at 7:30. Two revival sermons are announced for the morning and evening services Sunday.
